ORDER OF WORSHIP

WE GATHER TO BE GOD'S PEOPLE

Centering Thoughts: Not all loves are created equal. There is a huge range of meaning behind the word love. Just think how your love of a beautiful sunset compares to your love for a pet or your love for a variety of different people. As such, it isn't enough for Christians to state we are to "love one another." Not any type of love will do. Rather we are called to love in the way of Jesus, where we willingly "lay down our lives for one another." It is this love by which people will know those who abide in God.

Call to Worship

Pastor: Come, O people, and let us give praise to the Lord.
For the earth is the Lord's, and everything in it.
People: All of creation belongs to God.
Pastor: It is God who established the foundations of the earth;
People: It is the Lord who gives birth and life to all.
Pastor: In this we are claimed as children of God.
People: For God's love covers all of creation, calling and claiming us as God's own.
Pastor: Thus, we seek the Lord of hosts, the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, the Lord who is strong and mighty to save.
People: To God we come with our hopes and our sorrows,
we come with our brokenness and our glory.

We come that we may be birthed anew in the love of God.

Pastor: Then let us worship and give praise.
Let us be made one with our God, and through God, one another.

People: May God's name be praised! Amen.

Processional Hymn: "For All the Saints" (p. #299)

WE CONFESS OUR NEED FOR HEALING & GRACE

Call to Confession

Pastor: We hold ourselves to the truth that if we say we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not within us.

People: But if we confess our sins, God, who is faithful and just, will forgive our sin, setting us free to live in the way of Christ.

Pastor: Then let us seek for the life that comes through God.

Corporate Confessional

All: As a deer longs for flowing streams of water,
so my soul longs for you, O God.

Pastor: Yet at times, I feel utterly cut off, unable to stand upon you the rock of my salvation.

People: At times, it is as though a chasm yawns wide before me, dividing me from you.

All: Be it my sin or my sorrow, be it my arrogance or my brokenness, the truth remains the same –
As a deer longs for flowing streams of water,
so my soul longs for you, O God.

Pastor: In mercy, span the chasm that divides.

People: In truth, set my feet upon the solid ground of your presence,

All: In love, pour out the living waters of your Spirit, restoring us to life.

Pastor: As a deer longs for water, so our souls long for you, O God.

People: Amen.

Personal Silent Confession

(Personal prayers for God's healing and redeeming peace)

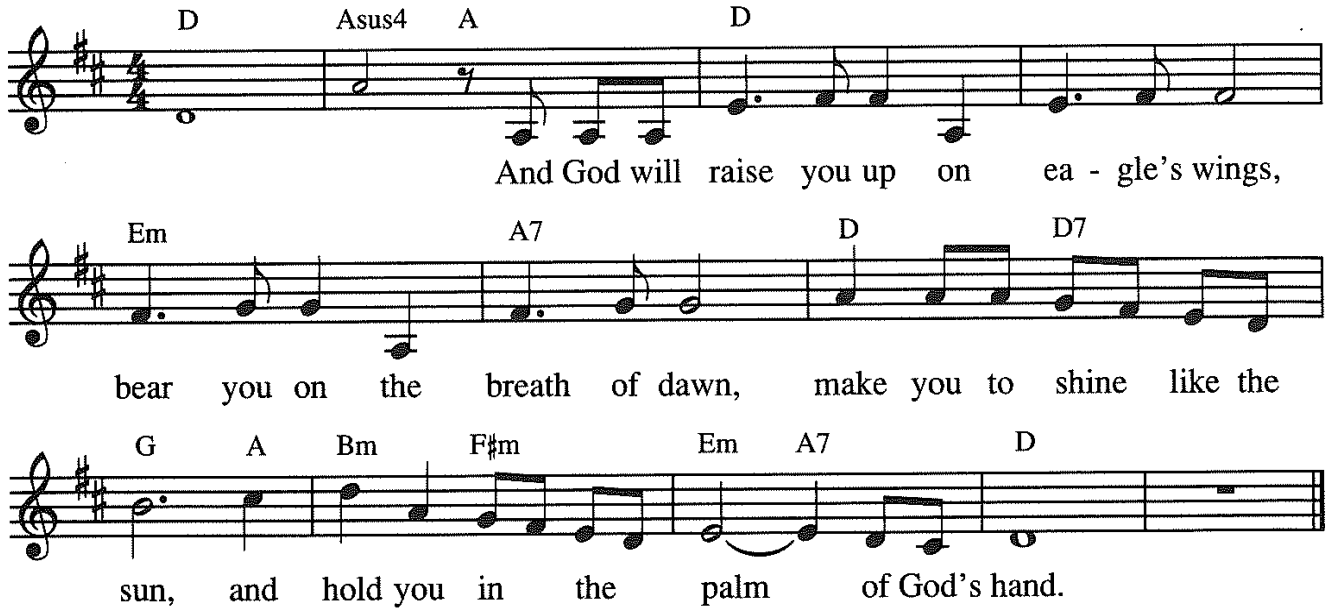

Assurance of Grace

Pastor: …who lays down his life for all those who dare to hope that they may be raised through him.

People: Glory be to the Father, and to the Son, and to the Holy Spirit who raise us to new life this day.

All: Amen!

Confession Response (Unison)

WE LISTEN FOR GOD'S LIVING WORD

Message for the Young & Young at Heart

(All youth are invited to come forward to the front steps. No Sunday School today.)

Prayer of Illumination

All: O Lord, our God, guide us in the path of your righteousness, turn our hearts to your decrees and open our minds to your will.
Let your steadfast love come to us,
in the hearing and proclaiming of your word.
Through Christ, your Incarnate Word, we pray. Amen.

First Epistle Lesson: 1 John 3:11-24 (p. #94)

This is the message you have heard from the beginning, that we should love one another. We must not be like Cain, who was from the evil one and murdered his brother. And why did he murder him? Because his own deeds were evil and his brother's righteous. Do not be astonished, brothers and sisters, that the world hates you. We know that we have passed from death to life because we love one another. Whoever does not love abides in death. All who hate a brother or sister are murderers, and you know that murderers do not have eternal life abiding in them. We know love by this, that he laid down his life for us—and we ought to lay down our lives for one another. How does God's love abide in anyone who has the world's goods and sees a brother or sister in need and yet refuses help?

Little children, let us love not in word or speech but in deed and truth. And by this we will know that we are from the truth and will reassure our hearts before him whenever our hearts condemn us, for God is greater than our hearts, and he knows everything. Beloved, if our hearts do not condemn us, we have boldness before God, and we receive from him whatever we ask, because we obey his commandments and do what pleases him.

And this is his commandment, that we should believe in the name of his Son Jesus Christ and love one another, just as he has commanded us. All who obey his commandments abide in him, and he abides in them. And by this we know that he abides in us, by the Spirit that he has given us.

Second Epistle Lesson: Revelation 7:9-17 (p. #249)

After this I looked, and there was a great multitude that no one could count, from every nation, from all tribes and peoples and languages, standing before the throne and before the Lamb, robed in white, with palm branches in their hands. They cried out in a loud voice, saying, "Salvation belongs to our God who is seated on the throne and to the Lamb!"
And all the angels stood around the throne and around the elders and the four living creatures, and they fell on their faces before the throne and worshiped God, singing, "Amen! Blessing and glory and wisdom and thanksgiving and honor and power and might be to our God forever and ever! Amen."

Then one of the elders addressed me, saying, "Who are these, robed in white, and where have they come from?" I said to him, "Sir, you are the one who knows." Then he said to me, "These are they who have come out of the great ordeal; they have washed their robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb.

For this reason they are before the throne of God and worship him day and night within his temple, and the one who is seated on the throne will shelter them. They will hunger no more and thirst no more; the sun will not strike them, nor any scorching heat, for the Lamb at the center of the throne will be their shepherd, and he will guide them to springs of the water of life, and God will wipe away every tear from their eyes."

Reader: The Word of the Lord.
People: Thanks be to God!

Pastor: …Come, let us hold one another, and our loved ones, in God's care.

Lighting Candles of Remembrance

(All are welcomed to light a candle in remembrance of those who have died. As you desire, proceed down the center aisle, pick up a candle, light it from the center pillar candle, and place it in the sand as you give prayer and thanks. Return to your seat by the side aisle.)

Healing Prayer

Pastor: O God, we celebrate the lives of all those who are remembered this day.
Keep their memories alive in our hearts and their presence alive in you.

People: We give thanks, O God, for all who have passed from this life into your eternal care.
We commend them to your continuing mercy,
as we trust in the hope of the resurrection and the promise of new life in Christ.

Pastor: God, we know that you meet us in our grief, that you lead us from darkened valleys with the promise of an abundant and blessed life.

People: We know that whether we live, or whether we die, we, and all whom we care about, are yours Merciful God.

Pastor: Therefore, though the earth should change, though the mountains shake in the heart of the sea,
though its waters roar and foam,
though the mountains tremble with its tumult,
we need not be consumed by fear or lost in our sorrow.

People: For the Lord our God is our refuge and our strength, a well proved help in times of trouble.

Pastor: Thus we rejoice and give thanks for the loved ones we now uplift, the memories we cherish, the joys we celebrate,
and the sorrow that speaks the truth of how we have shared,
and received, of great love.

All: Fill us now with all that is needed for this continuing journey of life and death, joy and sorrow, as you continue to come to us through the power and blessing of your Spirit.
Grant us gratitude to see your blessing, companionship that keeps us close to you,
wisdom that lifts our eyes in hope to your promise, compassion that unites us with others in need,
the assurance of your grace that never gives up on us,
and faith that lights the path of your way.

Pastor: Keep us faithful to the witness of those whom we have remembered this day, O God, and, like them, eager to follow in the way of Christ.
Then at last, bring us together to share in the inheritance of the saints, in the Church Triumphant, in your eternal Kingdom, and in the glory of your everlasting love.

In Jesus' name, we pray.

The Lord's Prayer (sins)

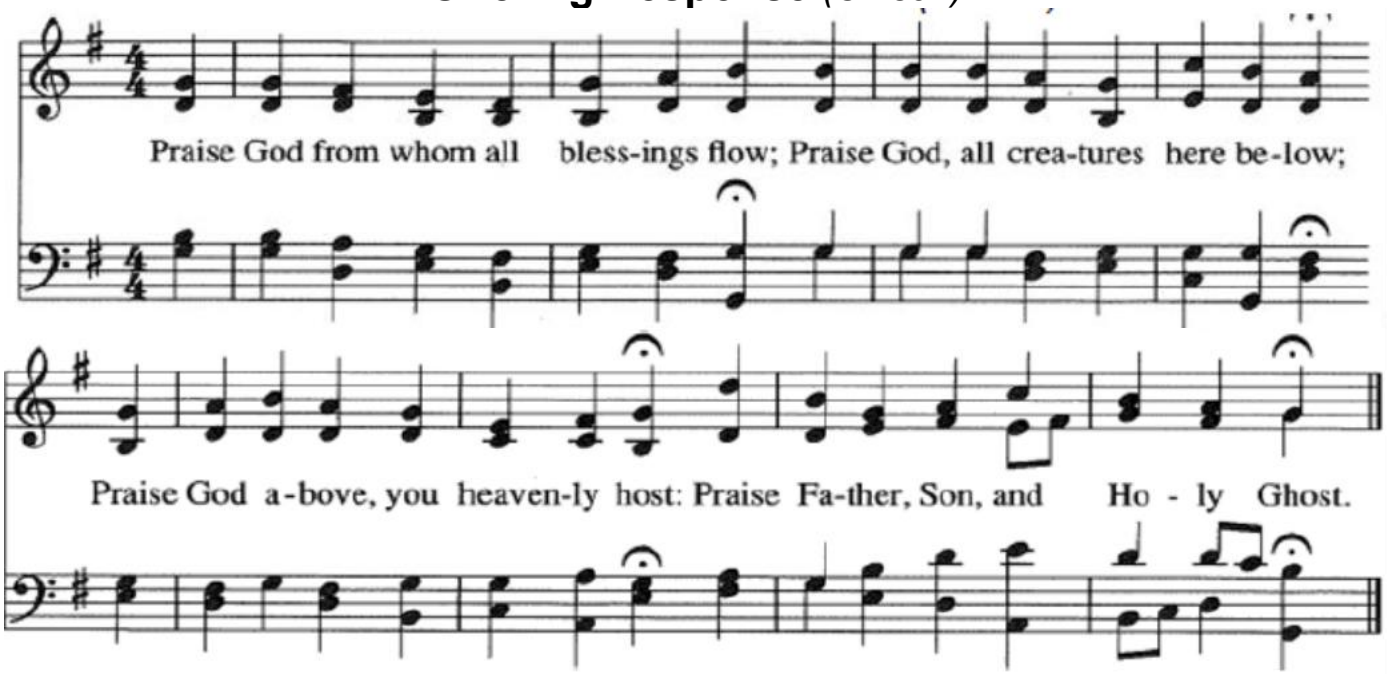

All: Our Father, who art in Heaven, hallowed be thy name.
Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven.
Give us this day our daily bread.
And forgive us our sins, as we forgive those who sin against us.
And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil.
For thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, forever. Amen.

The Keystone Connection

A Message to the Conference

October 27, 2026

Members and Friends of Keystone Conference,

""The one who is seated on the throne will shelter them," (Revelation 7:15b)

One of the readings for All Saints Day comes from the Book of Revelation, a book often avoided in mainline Protestant pulpits. Over the centuries, Revelation has been appropriated by apocalyptic thinkers and writers who have turned its mysterious imagery into predictions of catastrophe and destruction. But I confess that I love Revelation. Its imagery is dramatic, mysterious, and remarkably rich. And at the heart of it all is one of Christianity's most powerful images: the Lamb.

Jesus is first proclaimed the "Lamb of God" by John the Baptist. But in Revelation, the image takes on new dimensions. The Lamb has been slain, yet lives. The Lamb has conquered, but not through violence or domination. Instead, the Lamb embodies the unexpected power of vulnerability, sacrifice, and love.

Professor Richard Ward of Phillips Theological Seminary suggests approaching Revelation as we might approach an enormous tapestry hanging in a museum. Rather than trying to decipher every detail, we step back and take in the grand sweep of its images and the story they tell.

Looking at this tapestry in the reading for All Saints Day, we encounter one of Revelation's most beautiful scenes: a great multitude gathered before the throne of God, people "from every nation, from all tribes and peoples and languages." Dressed in white and holding palm branches, they sing their praises to God. And then comes an extraordinary promise:

"They will hunger no more, and thirst no more ... for the Lamb at the center of the throne will be their shepherd, and he will guide them to springs of the water of life, and God will wipe away every tear from their eyes." (Revelation 7:16–17)

Consider that image for a moment - the Lamb becomes the Shepherd. The one who suffered becomes the one who shelters. The one who was wounded becomes the source of healing. At the very center of God's reign is not overwhelming force, but self-giving love.

And what does this have to do with All Saints Day?

Return to the tapestry of Revelation and imagine that great multitude gathered before God. Imagine recognizing among those countless faces the saints of your own life: those who loved you, taught you, nurtured your faith, and have now passed from this life. Imagine them gathered with people from every corner of the earth, every language and nation, united in their diversity by the love of God.

Revelation tells us that God will "shelter them." Such a simple word, shelter, yet how profoundly we understand our need for it. God will cover them or built a tent or dwell among them (the Greek work is rich). Imagine this: shelter from fear; shelter from suffering; and shelter from the losses and sorrows that are part of being human.

All Saints Day invites us to remember those we have loved and lost. But it also asks us to lift our eyes beyond grief toward the promise of God: that suffering and death do not have the final word. That we belong to a communion far greater than anything we can see. That the Lamb who conquered through love will lead us, too, to the springs of the water of life.

And that one day, God will wipe away every tear.

Peace,

Carrie
